Rajesh Rupani, PMP, Head, Technical Papers Committee

Dear Readers,

Welcome to the e-souvenir of PMI National Conference 2010 organized by PMI India from 19th to 21st November 2010 at Grand Hyatt, Mumbai.

This conference is one of the apt platforms provided by PMI where like minded professionals from the project management stream come together, interact, learn and network. This is also a time in the year where the best of the projects get awarded for their good work and alignment to project management practices.

In the current year conference, you would have heard the best of the minds in the industry speaking on wide ranging topics like integrating Agile and PMBOK, glory from successfully endeavours, learning's from failed projects and the like.

The main ingredient of a PMI conference is the presentation of technical papers which this time scaled newer dimensions. We started the process way back in March 2010 and invited people all over the country to submit their abstracts speed over 10 topics ranging across the length and breadth of streams in project management. The idea was to provide ample opportunities to our participants to write their minds and share their ideas.

We got more than 400 abstracts which were anonymously evaluated by an expert panel. The evaluator panel was selected considering their experience, industry and profile. 150 of the 400 abstracts were selected and participants were requested to submit their papers. Each of these papers was evaluated by two evaluators to eliminate possibility of bias towards topics or industries.

The papers that you will read hereon are 49 of the best papers selected by the evaluation committee. These are all sorted by topics and then in alphabetical order. We sincerely hope that you would enjoy reading through these papers like our evaluation committee did and like we did in the course of working through the entire process.

Before signing off, I would wish to thank the entire evaluation panel for helping us out choose the best for all of you. Sincere thanks to Ms. Mangalam Khare who put in her consistent efforts for co-ordination during the entire process, the staff at PMI and the organizing committee for providing us this opportunity for the conference.

With kind Regards,

Rajesh Rupani, PMP
